After taking a photograph, Alan uses this as the starting point to be creative and manipulated into a fine art image. Join us to hear some of Alan's practical suggestions and ideas that can make creative photography accessible to everyone in our club.

Whether it is making the spoon look interesting or taking a number of photographs and creating an image of something familiar that now looks rather different or using intentional camera movement (ICM) with a table lamp, all of these are a starting point for the more interesting creative photography ideas that Alan will present to our club.
